

Social Network Terms and Community Policies v Applicable Laws

ABSTRACT

Huge numbers of users abide by the on-line rules of social networks and online communities. What happens if such rules infringe applicable laws, or even violate fundamental rights? Who is responsible for the proper application of policies and regulations in cyberspace? How can someone seek legal protection against abusive practices? The paper tries to identify challenging answers for such dilemmas.